Comments from the Editors and Reviewers:

Thank you for submitting your paper for consideration. Before I can put the paper under review, I will require a structured manuscript as follows:

1. Please re-structure paper as follows: 1. Introduction, 2. Background, 3. Theoretical literature review, 4. Empirical literature review and hypotheses development, 5. Research design, 6. Empirical results and discussion, and 7. Summary and conclusion. Please let me kindly emphasise that this structure must be followed if you would like your paper to progress in this journal, and if you do not or you are unable to re-structure your paper this way (following this 7 part structure), I will like to be clear, frank, honest and upfront that the paper will be rejected. This is the minimum quality standard of the journal. So please kindly take your time to follow and effect this revision.

2. Introduction: Please clarify your research questions, objectives, background motivation, theoretical and empirical motivation and the lines of contributions to the literature. You can do this by sharply articulating your research questions/objectives, identify the potential theoretical, background and theoretical motivation or gaps, and explain how your study contributes to the literature. You can do this by highlighting the weaknesses of prior studies as well. Currently, your introduction is very dry. Additionally, you need state clearly the contributions of the paper. For example, “Consequently, the current paper seeks to make the following contributions to the existing literature. First,...., Second,....., Third, ..., Fourth,... and so on”. The introduction should be about 5 pages long.

3. Background – you need to explain why this is the appropriate context to conduct this study by exploiting regulatory, reform and policy issues and developments within the research context or setting. This should be about two to three pages long.

4. Theoretical framework - Please an overarching theoretical framework that will explain the underlying predictions and hypotheses of interest. In doing so, please explicitly outline how they help link the dependent and independent variables together by drawing on both seminal (old) and recently (newly) published studies. This should be about two to three pages long.

5. Literature review and hypotheses Development – please enhance your hypotheses by: (i) drawing on the theory; (ii) empirical literature; (iii) research setting/contextual insights; and (iv) then setting up your hypotheses. You will do this for each hypothesis. Currently, you have not developed your hypotheses in this way. You will need to so by drawing on both seminal (old) and recently (newly) published studies.

6. Research design – Please identify, classify and explain your variables – dependent, independent and control variables, as well as any others, such as moderating or mediating variables. Please also explain your sample selection clearly (insert a table tabulating the steps - how many was missing, many had data, how many selected and why) and also clarify in a normative way how the variables are operationalised. Similarly, explain your sample in a tabular form, outlining step by step the total population to the selection of the final sample. Label all your equations, figures and tables in a consecutive manner. Make the tables self-contained by clearly identifying dependent, independent and control variables in the tables.

7. Empirical findings – please link your findings more strongly to the: (i) theory, (ii) empirics, (iii) context; and (iv) highlight their economic, academic/research and policy implications. Closely link up and cite the papers that you have discussed in the background, theory and empirical literature review & and hypotheses development section to the findings you are presenting here.

8. Conclusion – Please outline a summary of findings, contributions, implications, limitations and avenues for future research. Especially, expand the discussions relating to implications, limitations and avenues for future research.

9. Robustness or additional analyses – please demonstrate how your findings are to alternative measures (e.g., different ways of measuring the key dependent and independent variables), estimations (e.g., lagged structure, GMM estimator, Generalised Least Square regressions, Fixed or random effects regressions, two- or three-stage least squares regression, propensity score matching, difference in difference estimation, probit and logit models, Heckman selection models, and instrumental variables estimation, amongst others) and general endogeneities. This is completely missing.

10. Please in order to build on this area of research in this journal, cite relevant and related papers published in this journal, and highlight those in the colour yellow.

11. Typos – please there are considerable number of typos, spelling errors and grammatical mistakes throughout the paper that a careful reading will help you to eliminate them. Seek professional proof-reader's help if deemed appropriate. Improve presentation by clearly labelling equations, tables, sections and subsections.

12. Please highlight all these changes in the colour yellow and offer a point by point response of the changes that you have made in the paper to the above comments (the above 11 comments) in your detailed author report of amendments to the editor.

I look forward to receiving your revised manuscript.

Best regards
Collins Ntim (PhD), ACGBE.
