Reviewer A:

Dear Editor,

I have completed the initial check and review of the paper entitled “ Portrait of Equity Risk Premium in Indonesia Capital Market Period 1990 – 2022 ”

The study analyzes the risk premium on the Indonesia Stock Exchange (IDX) in the last 32 years.

During my review, I am convinced that this paper is an original research paper and fits the journal's requirements. However, there are some requirements.

- Title: The title describes the article.

- Abstract: Abstract meets the journal methodology and reflects the content of the article including the main research question, methodology, and contribution.
- Introduction: Authors define the problem and draw attention to the importance of the topic, subject matter of the study, referring to the most recent bibliography and research gap.
- Author should give more ideas on research questions, data, methodology, and text organization in the last paragraph.
- Omit figure 1 from the introduction. There should not be any figures or tables in this part.
- Literature Review: Author should segment this part into two categories including the theoretical background and empirical studies, and the hypothesis should be linked to studies for empirical studies. Add several up-to-date papers from SCOPUS, and SSCI.
- Research and Methodology: The methodology is an essential part of empirical studies. Therefore, we suggest you provide more information about data, sample, method, model, components and variables.
- Illustration of values in figures and tables is very important. Check their numerical order throughout the text.
- Conclusion/Discussion: It is not a summary. Original thoughts belonging to authors are very important and placed here. We expect you also evaluate the obtained results, including a proven working hypothesis, assessment of the research and results, analysis, attention to specific problems, guidelines for future research, suggestions, and recommendations.
- References must be in APA style including the DOI numbers. Check all references throughout the text and ensure there is no missing references in the bibliographic list. Journal adheres to the Mendeley's APA style. APA referencing Style (updated)
