Dear Dr. Kholid:

Thank you for your email. Our system recently updated, and your paper did not get transferred from the original submission review to the external reviewers. I have corrected this issue, and your paper is now out for review. I hope to have your reviews in within a few weeks.

Thank you for your patience.

[JSBS] Editor Decision Inbox x

Dr. William C. McDowell <wmcowell@bradley.edu> to Muamar, Naziatul Thu, Nov 19, 2020, 5:54 AM

Drs. Kholid and Asri:

We have reached a decision regarding your submission to Journal of Small Business Strategy, "The Effect of External Variables on Mobile Accounting App Adoption by Student Entrepreneurs." Our decision is to offer you an opportunity to revise and resubmit the manuscript. The reviewers were intrigued by the topic and impressed with the paper. Attached you will find constructive suggestions to improve the overall quality and fit with JSBS. Please indicate your intentions to resubmit the manuscript within 6 weeks and be sure to show fit with current JSBS literature by citing recent works within your paper. Thank you for considering JSBS as a publication outlet. We look forward to continuing to work with you.

Sincerely,
The JSBS Editorial Team

Reviewer A:

The paper, "The Effect of External Variables on Mobile Accounting App Adoption by Student Entrepreneurs " is a good work a however the author is requested to get this paper proofread by a native English Language speaker.

Reviewer C:

Overall it was a very good paper with proper methodology and statistical analysis.
Some minor issues: proof read for errors in tenses, and use of idioms .
References are thorough. Many through theory are dated, and that is acceptable, some contain discussions of values which is too far dated.
If I may make a suggestion, please incorporate how these findings could be generalized to other entrepreneurs around the globe. My assumption is that these findings will be universal. How, as faculty and institutions, can we better promote the use of the app.

Reviewer F:

1. There have been many studies on Relative Advantage. It would help if you compare apples to apples, not older with younger respondents.
2. The reasons for choosing the object of research (Yogkararta) are also not quite right
3. The references should not come from online media
4. Is the Likert scale even?
5. The use of fonts in the table must be consistent
6. The number in the table/figure does not need to be rewritten in the discussion

Hello,

Your manuscript has been typeset, and the proofs are ready for review.

Please provide edits in one of two ways.

1. Write out a list of your requested edits in a reply message. For each edit, provide the following:

- Location:
- Original (full sentence for textual edits):
- Replacement (full sentence for textual edits):
- Instruction:

Example:

- Location: Introduction
- Original (full sentence for textual edits): "The quick blue fox."
- Replacement (full sentence for textual edits): "The quick brown fox."
- Instruction: Replace "blue" with "brown"

2. Annotate the PDF and attach it to your reply message. We recommend using Adobe Acrobat for the annotations. You can access the PDF proof of your article by clicking the blue field "Save article as..." on the HTML proof linked below.

Please complete your review by Wednesday, November 17.

Dear Prof William McDowell

Some changes have been made on the Web version as per my request, but all change requests have not been made on the PDF version. I can't check whether the change request regarding the institution name and institution address has been made or not because the information is not available in the web version.

I hope to receive an Updated Article in the PDF version to be able to check comprehensively.

Thank You.

Regards
Muamar
